Weather

Fine, hot weather. The maximum temperature yesterday was 92.3 and the minimum 78.3, the figures for the corresponding day last year being 93.9 and 79.2.

MODERATION POLICY URGED ON ALLIES BY LLOYD GEORGE

British Premier Suggests Procedure At Conference

POINCARE TALKS

French Statesman Describes Nation's Sufferings

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 7.—The greater portion of the six-hours conference was occupied by long speeches by M. Poincare and Mr. Lloyd George. M. Poincare proposed a definite scheme which he wishes kept secret. This was referred to a committee of Finance Ministers and experts presided over by Sir Robert Horne, which will report to the conference on the matter.

It is considered that the great test of the scheme is whether it will bring money.

London, August 7.—In submitting his proposals to the inter-Allied conference, M. Poincare graphically described the sufferings of France as a result of the German default. He was opposed to a moratorium but did not desire to act without the Allies. He wished to place all his cards on the table.

Mr. Lloyd George said that the failure of Germany to meet her obligations could only be regarded fairly as one affecting the Allies as a whole. France had suffered grievously but all had suffered greatly. The situation was serious everywhere. He reminded M. Poincare of the casualties of the British Empire and of Italy and cited the Allies' monetary losses and taxation, declaring that Britain's burden was at least equal to that of the most heavily burdened of her Allies.

Referring to the good work which the Versailles Treaty had done, the British Premier said that no military authority could deny that Germany was now unable to equip an army capable of standing up to even one of the lesser Allied Powers. Militarily, Germany was broken and in the dust. She had hardly enough forces to maintain internal order. Her navy had been entirely destroyed. Germany had already paid £500,000,000. There had been three revolutions in Germany and the Government still had difficulties. The Committee of Guarantees had reported that Germany had not done badly. It was essential to take into account the fall of the mark. He had no desire to let Germany off any payments she was able to make. It was only a question of methods. Every sanction should be submitted to a test as to what it was likely to produce. Every variation of the demands made upon Germany had been agreed on by all the Allies.

Mr. Lloyd George finally suggested the reference of M. Poincare's proposals to a committee of Finance Ministers.

Signor Schanzer and M. Theunis emphasised their countries's heavy losses and agreed to Mr. Lloyd George's suggestion.

Viscount Hayashi said that the single object of the Allies should be to get all the money they could and likewise agreed to the suggestion, which was adopted.

The plenary session will meet again tomorrow afternoon or on Wednesday, when the committee will submit its report.

London, August 7.—A large crowd spent part of their August Bank Holiday outside No. 10, Downing Street, watching the arrival of the delegates to the opening session of the inter-Allied conference.

Thirty Ministers, experts and secretaries were persent.

Great Britain was represented by Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Sir Robert Horne and Sir Laming Worthington-Evans; France by M. Poincare and M. de Lasteyrie; Belgium by M. Theunis and M. Jaspar; Italy by Signor Schanzer and Count de Martino; Japan by Viscount Hayashi.

The morning was devoted to a preliminary discussion of matters which will engage the attention of the conference, namely, the question of German reparations and the cognate problems of a moratorium and inter-Allied debts.

The last adjournment was for lunch.

DOG DAYS STUFF

By Westa

THE LATE GEORGE L. Vest, who for many years was a Senator from Missouri, was passing a small country court house in his native state one day, and upon being told that a trial was in progress, stepped inside to watch the proceedings. The plaintiff in the case was a man who had been bitten by a dog belonging to a poor farmer, and as the owner of the dog was unable to offer any testimony in extenuation of the animal's act the jury was just on the point of assessing damages and ordering the dog shot.

Senator Vest, being himself a great lover of dogs, and noting that the owner of the guilty canine was without counsel, walked over to him and offered to make a plea to the jury. The farmer gladly consented, whereupon Senator Vest turned to the jury and made what was perhaps the best dog speech ever delivered. I can only quote it from memory, and may not have it correct, in which event I shall be glad to print a true version if any dogologist has a copy and cares to send it in. Senator Vest said:

"Gentlemen of the jury, the best friend a man has in this world may turn against him, and become his enemy. A man's son or daughter, whom he has reared with loving care and kindness, may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us; those whom we trust with our fortune and our good name, may be first to throw the stone of malice when misfortune overtakes us.

"The money that a man has may fly away from him, perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation, that he has built up through a life time of honest effort, may be thrown away in a single instant of ill considered action.

"Gentlemen of the jury, the one absolutely unselfish friend that a man may have in this selfish world, is his dog. A man's dog is with him in adversity or prosperity, in sickness or in health. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer, and guard the sleep of his pauper master as though he were a prince. He will sleep on the cold ground, where rain beats down or wintry winds blow fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. And when the last scene of all comes, and the master is laid away in the ground, no matter if all other friends go their way, there by the graveside will the faithful dog be found, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfullness, faithful and true, even in death."

Reading that over, it doesn't listen altogether like the original. But maskee! That was the gist of the Senator's argument, and needless to say the dog was acquitted by the jury.

IT WOULD BE A mistake for anyone to conclude, from this speech of Senator Vest's, that it is only in Missouri that dogs are loyal and grateful to their masters. Far from it. Only yesterday Graham-Barrow came across with an account of some Englishmen who one day were discussing the good qualities of their dogs, and telling how loyal and faithful and intelligent they were.

Every man, of course, had the best dog, and the evidence to prove it. But the magnificent padded door bell with the Maxim silencer attachment was finally awarded to a chap from out of town who asserted that his dog was so intelligent that he could actually anticipate his, the master's, plans for the future.

This seemed rather a bold statement and the speaker was asked to cite evidence in support of his contention.

"Well," he said, "just yesterday, when I was packing my luggage in preparation for my trip to London, my dog came into the room, and seeing me engaged at this task, began to pull at my trousers leg, and in other ways indicate that he wanted me to follow him. So I allowed him to lead me out of the house and into the garden, and when we came to a certain flower bed the dog stopped and pluckec a flower with his paw and handed it to me, at the same time rubbing his eyes, which were filled with tears, with the other paw. I looked at the flower, and would you believe it—it was a forget-me-not."

Her Voice Heard By Largest Audience

MISS Margaret Young is said to hold the record for having the largest audience, more than 1,000,000 of her phonograph records having been sold. The thin line on the discs that records one song is 600 feet long, so that her total "voice line" is something like 111,000 miles.

SHANGHAI MAN GOES TO DEATH IN POOTOO SURF

H. G. Foster, On Week-End Excursion, Drowned As Friends Watch

Passengers returning to Shanghai from Pootoo yesterday by the steamer Ningshin brought word of the tragic death of Mr. H. G. Foster, sanitary engineer with offices at 1 Kiukiang Road, who was drowned while bathing last Saturday morning.

Mr. Foster was one of the large number of Shanghai residents who made the excursion trip, leaving here Friday evening, and he met his death within sight and hailing distance of fellow swimmers after having gone beyond the safety zone of the Pootoo beach.

According to the story of witnesses Mr. Foster was one of the first in the surf Saturday morning and immediately swam out beyond the shallows. He had been warned of the danger of getting too far out but was apparently a strong swimmer and for some time was seen to be proceeding easily through the breakers. Bathers inshore shouted and waved to him when they believed that he had gone beyond the limits of reasonable safety and he apparently heard them and started in toward the beach, but later was seen swimming about in easy fashion and those on his party thought him master of the situation. Watchers from the rocks at the end of the beach however saw the swimmer throw up his arms and sink. They saw him rise to the surface once again and then he disappeared for the last time. Search for the body along the shore line during Saturday and Sunday failed and it is believed that it was caught in the swift undercurrent resultant from the typhoon and carried out to sea.

Report of another foreign death on the beach was given Ningshin passengers, but no authentic details were furnished. The other fatality was said to have occurred on Friday, the day preceding Mr. Foster's death, when a youth of about 18 is reported to have been swept beyond his depth and went under before assistance could be given.

Another of the Ningshin passengers, a crane driver employed by Messrs. Trollope and Colls, narrowly escaped death by drowning only a few minutes after Mr. Foster sank. He had just gone into the surf near the rocky point at one end of the beach when he was caught in a whirlpool and though a strong swimmer was unable to get back to safety. A foreigner stopping on the island rushed to the rescue with a bamboo pole which the bather managed to grasp and he was drawn ashore.

Mr. Foster came to Shanghai about four years ago and entered the employ of Messrs. Andersen, Meyer and Co. Later he joined the firm of Elm and Co. and last May went into business for himself under the name of Foster and Co. He was a member of the Light Horse of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps.

"Trouble Over In Two Hours", Says Head Of Star Concern And Asserts Company In Compelled To Make Workers Pay For Repairs

Contrary to the hopes of those who brought about the strike of ricsha coolies the main body of workers refused yesterday to join the walk-out. Places of the five hundred-odd coolies who quit in an effort to obtain better conditions for themselves were filled from the hordes of unemployed and the strike, which began on Monday morning, did not cause even a ripple yesterday in the sea of man-power traffic on Shanghai's streets.

The strike developed among the workers of five of the thirty-odd branch depots of the Star Ricsha company, all located in Chapei. It was engineered by a recently organised union of Chinese known as sub-foremen, each of whom control from five to ten ricshas. The sub-foremen are the men who deal directly with coolie workers after renting the ricshas from foremen above them who in turn rent from compradores who in their turn contract for the use of ricshas from the operating companies.

SHIFTING REPAIR CHARGE

The Star Ricsha company holds 3,000 of the 8,000 ricsha licenses issued by the Municipal Council and therefore controls nearly forty percent of the public ricsha business in Shanghai. The burden of maintaining repairs for all causes on ricshas originally was placed by the operating companies upon the compradores who in the case of the Star company number about thirty, each renting about 100 ricshas from the companies. This important charge for repairs then was shifted downward, first upon the foremen and then upon the sub-foremen who have encountered difficulty in placing it finally upon the actual worker who ordinarily ran away and disappeared in the face of serious obligation such as a general smash-up of his vehicle.

By reason of this state of affairs, the sub-foremen of the Star company, particularly in the Chapei depots, formed a union and after having induced some five hundred of the coolie pullers to quit they have been seeking in the past two days of the walk-out to extend the strike to all of the three thousand coolies using Star vehicles. At the headquarters of the Star company near Honan Road, off Range Road it was said yesterday that the strike caused no interruption whatever of the company's business and that the whole trouble [illegible] the space of hours.

WHAT COMPANIES EARN

Common report anent earnings of ricsha companies in Shanghai seemingly doesn't square with the first-hand estimate of Mr. Benjamin Cohen, President of the Ricsha Owners Association and head of the Star Ricsha company whose daily gross return from the 3,000 ricshas it operates runs to approximately $2,250, or something like $821,250 annually.

In a public appeal issued on the first day of the strike on behalf of the workers one statement aimed at Mr. Cohen declared that from a modest financial beginning he had in the space of three years amassed a fortune of three millions from the toil of the ricsha pullers of Shanghai. Perhaps reasonably, Mr. Cohen characterised this statement as absurd. A more modest estimate of the earnings of the Star Ricsha company that was published yesterday in THE CHINA PRESS placed the net annual profits at something above $400,000. Mr. Cohen did not see fit to give any figures indicating what profits or earnings might be, but he was at pains to deny many of the charges that the strikers made in their published appeal and to demonstrate that an operating ricsha company has to meet many expenses that are not apparent to the public.

TELLS OF COSTS

He mentioned casually that his company paid out $15,000 a month for licenses, $2 a month on each ricsha in the International Settlement, the same sum for license in the French concession and $1 for license in Chapei in

CONSORTIUM TOLD NOT TO LEND ON TARIFF SECURITY

Chinese Chamber Of Commerce Favors Money Be Used For Likin Abolition

Following its proposal to the Peking Government to abolish the much-condemned Likin, or internal revenue system in China, the local Chinese General Chamber of Commerce yesterday addressed a message to the new Consortium, asking the latter to reject any proposal for loan to be secured by the revenue to be increased after the completion of the new tariff schedule.

The chamber favors the allotment of the entire proceeds of the increased tariff to make up the loss to be sustained on account of the proposed abolition of the Likin.

"It has been unquestionably considered by our Government that the system of Likin, which oppresses both the state and the people, should be abolished. The abolition has been delayed only because the international agreement on the increase of customs' tariff to make up the shortage in revenue from the abolition of the Likin, had not yet been carried out.

"But now the compilation of a new tariff schedule is in progress. The increase in revenue from (1) the effective 5 percent, (2) the additional surtax of 2½ percent and (3) the additional surtax of 5 percent on luxuries, would be quite sufficient to make up the lost of revenue after the abolition of the Likin.

"It has been, indeed, clearly provided in the Nine Power Treaty concluded in Washington on the subject of Chinese Customs Tariff. This Chamber has, therefore, wired the Peking Government, requesting that the increased revenue from the customs should be officially assigned for the sole purpose of reimbursing the lost revenue on account of the abolition of Likin; and should not be assigned for any other expenditures and consequently obstructing the way of Likin abolition.

"We sincerely trust that you will respect the will of the Chinese people—favoring the abolition of the Likin—and that you will reject any proposal, on any pretence, for a foreign loan to be secured on the said increased revenue from Customs."

An Appeal To Shanghai

Reports received last night from Swatow place the death toll in last week's typhoon disaster there at as high as 20,000. The property loss is now estimated at $30,000,000. Thousands have been left homeless. Other thousands are injured and in dire need of medical attention and food. Definite information of the exact extent of the havoc wrought by the storm is still lacking, but sufficient advices have been received from careful foreign observers to indicate that the disaster is one of the most serious that has befallen China in recent years.

Aid is needed. Shanghai, through appeals to the American Red Cross, has been asked to do her bit. The Red Cross has undertaken the direction of relief work. There is an extreme need for funds to purchase food and medical supplies. Shanghai men and women of all nationalities are urged to contribute. Checks or cash to be applied for the relief of the suffering thousands may be sent either to Dr. W. W. Peter, honorary secretary of the China Central Committee, American Red Cross, 4 Quinsan Gardens, or to THE CHINA PRESS. All subscriptions received by THE CHINA PRESS will be turned over to the American Red Cross.

Only Woman Director Of Opera

MISS Emma R. Steiner, not satisfied with the distinction of being second cousin of Barbara Frietchie, of Civil War fame, has the honor of being the only woman in America to conduct opera. Born in Baltimore, Md., she showed her talent early, and in the past thirty years has conducted 6,000 performances of fifty different operas. In the early nineties she went to Nome, Alaska, and was the first white woman to reach the tin fields at York, 100 miles north of Nome. She is now musical director of the Music Temple of the World in New York City.

PEACE FAILS TO HOLD IN STRIKE OF SILK WORKERS

Women Employed In Chapei Filatures Walk Out Again

Six ring leaders of the Chapei filature strikers were arrested and jailed by the Chinese police yesterday afternoon following their partially successful attempt [illegible] girls who returned to their work early [illegible] The prisoners include Mo Tse-yin, alias Kiangpo An Nyi, president of the filature workers' union at Hun An Fan Chapei.

The Silk and Cocoon Guild here at a meeting yesterday evening decided to prosecute the strikers for intimidating and creating a disturbance. Its secretary, Hsu Wan-li, was given power to represent the guild in the case which will be heard in the Chinese Procurate. The meeting further decided to appeal to the provincial and police authorities for assistance, but resolved not to give in to the demands of the strikers.

Twenty-five filatures in Chapei and five in the International Settlement which went on strike Monday resumed operations yesterday morning following police assistance. At noon, however, picketing was resumed in Chapei and along the boundary line. By 1 o'clock, more than one thousand women gathered round the headquarters of the filature workers' union and attempted to hold a meeting. The ring-leaders were promptly arrested by No. 2 station of the fourth district of the Chapei Police. Immediately after the news was spread among the workers the strike was resumed. Less than 20 percent of the original number of mill-hands were retained by the filatures throughout the day.

The strike is expected to become more general today. Filature operators believe that the strikers will put up a bitter fight before they go back to their jobs. Meanwhile, the owners are determined not to grant any of the demands made by the girls, including shorter hours and more pay. The workers claim that they put in 13½ hours daily.

Red Cross Holds Annual Election

New officers were elected by the China Central Committee of the American Red Cross at a tiffin meeting at the Union Club yesterday as follows:

Honorary Chairman, Jacob Gould Schurman, U. S. Minister to China; Field Representative, Judge Charles S. Lobingier; Chairman, Mr. Arthur Bassett; Vice-Chairman, Dr. J. C. McCracken; Honorary Secretary, Dr. W. W. Peter, and Honorary Treasurer, Mr. Clement J. Smith.

CONSULAR BODY APPROVES NEW ADVISORY BOARD

Final Endorsement Given Five Chinese Who Will Advise Municipal Council

The five nominations submitted by the Shanghai Municipal Council to form its Chinese advisory board have been approved by the local Consular Body. This approval was contained in a letter received from the Council yesterday by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, which originally submitted the nominations to the council.

The new board will consist of Mr. Sung Han-chang, chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and manager of the Bank of China; Mr. H. Y. Moh, manager of the Teh Dah and Hou Seng Cotton Mills of Shanghai; Mr. K. P. Chen, manager of the Shanghai Commercial and Savings Bank; Mr. Y. S. Ziar, attorney of the law firm of Messrs. Platt and Co. and Mr. Jabin Hsu of THE CHINA PRESS.

All five served last year on the board with the exception of Mr. Hsu, who succeeds Dr. David Z. T. Yui, people's delegate to the Washington Conference and chairman of the Committee on the Redemption of the Shantung Railway.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE NOW CONFINED TO CHINA MERCHANTS

Smaller Companies Resume Sailings Following Settlement

With a settlement reached in every case except the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company, the strike of seamen, firemen and boys who are members of the Shanghai Branch of the Chinese Seamen's Union has narrowed down to a direct war on that company.

Thirteen of the China Merchants' ships are now tied up in the Whangpoo, and it is expected that as the remaining twenty-three ships owned by the company arrive here the crews will walk out. Apparently, the matter is at a deadlock, as no efforts to reach a settlement have as yet been made by the company. About 600 men in all are now out, but there has been no attempt at violence of any character.

Regular runs have been resumed by the ships owned by the five smaller Chinese companies which have yielded to the demands of the strikers.

LAUNCH MOVE HERE TO AID SUFFERERS IN SWATOW AREA

Chinese And American Red Cross Act

DOCTORS NEEDED

Campaign For Funds And Food Opened

Steps toward the sending of aid to the stricken city of Swatow were taken here yesterday following receipt of urgent messages from Hongkong which told of a death roll of more than 10,000 persons and of suffering among tens of thousands of survivors of last week's typhoon. At the same time measures were taken to give aid if needed to the survivors of the ill fated Chinese steamer Zai On, which was dashed to pieces at Woosung Monday morning with a loss of life variously estimated at from twenty to nearly 200 persons.

The Chamber of Commerce at Swatow has cabled the Chinese Chamber here that the dead number in the neighborhood of 20,000 and that the property loss reaches the thirty million mark.

Telegrams from American Consular officials at Hongkong resulted in the calling of a meeting yesterday afternoon of the China Central Committee of the American Red Cross. The first telegrams from the South stated that money and rice were needed immediately to care for the homeless thousands in Swatow. Subsequent wires received by United States Consul-General Cunningham laid stress upon the need of doctors and nurses and asked that Shanghai send a contingent with the utmost despatch. Authority was also asked by the Hongkong branch of the American Red Cross for the turning over of $600 at present available in its treasury. The situation was laid before the officers of the Central Committee at yesterday's meeting and the turning over of available funds was authorised and it was decided to issue an appeal for physicians to go to Swatow by the earliest steamer. One foreign doctor and his wife, who is a trained nurse, have already volunteered for service and will leave as soon as they can board a ship bound for Swatow.

WILL SEEK FUNDS HERE

Co-operation with the Chinese Red Cross was urged and the latter organisation's representatives announced that a campaign for funds would be launched immediately and efforts would be made to enlist doctors and nurses to be sent to the scene of the disaster.

Doctors or nurses willing to go to Swatow in answer to the call for help may send their names to Dr. B. Y. Wong, of the Red Cross Society of China, 26 Kiukiang Road, or to Dr. W. W. Peter, of the China Central Committee of the American Red Cross. It is not yet known, Dr. Peter stated yesterday, just how soon the first batch of doctors can be sent South, shipping companies being indefinite as to sailings for Swatow, but it is hoped that the first volunteers may get away within the next day or so.

Two ships from Southern ports arrived in Shanghai yesterday, the P. and O. Liner Devanha and Suiyang of the China Navigation Company, but neither, though each felt the effects of the typhoon brought any detailed information with regard to the destruction occasioned by the blow.

DEVANHA ESCAPES BLOW

The Devanha arrived at the Hongkong Wharf at noon yesterday, twenty-four hours behind schedule. She left Hongkong last Friday morning, shortly after the tail-end of the storm had begun to be felt there, and a little time thereafter received a radio message advising of the extent of the typhoon. The captain ordered the ship hove to for twenty-four hours and thereby kept behind the storm. Rough weather was experienced on the trip up the coast but otherwise there was no difficulty.

The Suiyang made port from Hongkong at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She also was in the wake of the typhoon and ran through a rough sea, but was not otherwise affected.

It is thought that the Loksang, due today, may have more news of the disaster.

The French Mail liner Cordillere is due in port today. The name company's ship the Andre Leilon, which left Shanghai Saturday forenoon, did not leave Woosung until 8 a.m. Monday, having been advised of the storm by Sikawei and having dropped anchor at Woosung for forty-eight hours.

Accurate details, particularly as regards the loss of life, were not obtainable yesterday in connection with the sinking of the Zai On at Woosung Monday morning. One of the later reports received by the Customs yesterday stated that the dead numbered about twenty. Earlier reports carried estimates ranging from 100 to 200 and it is believed that well over a hundred Chinese were drowned. It is thought that the report giving twenty as the number may concern bodies actually recovered.

SHIP DASHED ASHORE

The Zai On was owned by a Chinese company, with offices on the Nantao Bund. The vessel sailed from Shanghai at 7 p.m. Sunday with a cargo of cloth, cotton and onions, bound for Nantungchow. There were 300 passengers aboard according to officials of the company, but it is thought that, as is customary with Chinese vessels of this sort, there may have been nearly 500 Chinese passengers carried. The ship encountered such heavy weather near Tsungming Island that she was forced to put back toward Woosung. The ship was old and the terrific beating of the sea evidently started seams below the water line and when anchor was dropped near Paoshan the engine room was awash. The waves smote the upper decks with such force that the superstructure was carried away and passengers were washed overboard. Then the anchor chain broke and the ship was driven inshore, where she suffered an unmerciful pounding and finally sank, with the stump of her mast showing above water.

Three other craft, the Lee Wah of the Whangpoo Conservancy Board, the Pootoo of the Quarantine Station, and the Wuchang, were in the neighborhood of the doomed Zai On but owing to the latter's position in low water and the violence of the waves were unable to go to her assistance.

144 REPORTED SAVED

The third battalion of the 40th Brigade stationed at Paoshan, the Paoshan Magistrate's staff and the Paoshan police did what they could in the way of rescue work and cared for those who were washed or swam ashore. It was stated that 144 persons came to land alive by swimming or floating in with the wreckage or with life belts. These were cared for and given shelter at the Bureau of Dykes in Paoshan. Seven bodies were recovered during the day.

Reports indicating further loss of life in the Yangtsze mouth were brought to Shanghai yesterday. The master of the steamer Fausang, the Coast Inspector announced, reported having passed two junks, one bottom up and partly submerged off Drinkwater Buoy at 1:45 p.m. They are considered dangerous to navigation and mariners were warned of the danger.

Passengers on the steamers Ningshin and Hsin Ningshao who made the week-end trip to Pootoo had a rough time of it at the sacred island and at Ningpo respectively during the periods while the storm was at its height Sunday night.

The Ningshin rode the blast out at Pootoo, with two anchors on seventy-five fathoms of chain to windward and with the engines going most of the night. Four foreigners and a number of passengers who had gone ashore during the day were unable to get back to the ship on account of the sea until Monday afternoon and then only by a hazardous trip in the ship's boats. Several were left behind including the managing director of the San Peh Steam Navigation Company, owners of the vessel.

The Ningshao passed the night at Ningpo, where the tide rose to a height which threatened to ram the ship over the wharf, occasioning fears that on the ebb she might capsize.

Loss Of Life In Storm Now Estimated At 10,000

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, August 8.—In a circular issued today by the Hongkong Branch of the Swatow Chamber of Commerce, it is stated that 28,000 bodies of victims of the Swatow disaster have already been recovered. Benevolent societies are endeavoring to give decent burial but owing to the scarcity of coffins many have been interred in gunnybags or mattresses. Charitable organisations of Hongkong are combining to organise relief measures.

Hongkong, August 8.—The Officer Administering the Government has sent a letter to His Majesty's Consul at Swatow expressing to the Swatow authorities on behalf of the Colony, its sincerest sympathies in connection with the appalling disaster which has befallen the port and district and inquires the nature of assistance which is most immediately required. The Government has shipped rice and biscuits for the destitute at Swatow.

Hongkong, Aug. 7.—The Ursuline Convent at Swatow, under the charge of Canadian Sisters from Montreal who arrived a fortnight ago, has been considerably damaged by the typhoon.

When the roof was blown off the Sisters took refuge in the basement but were carried off by the subsequent flood. The Mother Superior drifted on a beam for a whole night, escaping miraculously. The Convent and Church properties have been wrecked.

In one village on the seacoast 300 native Christians have been drowned. The safety of the churches at Chaochowfu and Kityeung is feared.

The original estimate of the casualties resulting from the disaster has been considerably underestimated. It is now believed to be over 10,000.

A tidal wave has swamped the bund. The native city has been reduced to a heap of wreckage. Some looting has taken place by Chinese. The authorities are hard pressed in removing and burying corpses and carcasses.

The steamer Choysang on its way to Shanghai from Hongkong has been driven on to the Fort Island and badly damaged. The passengers and crew are safe.

The Hongkong Government has sent to the British Consul at Swatow money and a quantity of rice for the relief of the sufferers.

BODIES IN SEA

Hongkong, August 7.—Captain Sangster, of the steamer Hsinwah from Shanghai via Swatow, interviewed by Reuter's correspondent this afternoon, stated that before arriving at Swatow yesterday morning he passed corpses and carcasses floating out on the ebb tide 15 miles from Swatow.

On Double Island, where the pilots reside, not a single house is intact.

Inside the boats' refuge in the harbor was one mass of wreckage of every description. Dead bodies and carcasses were floating promiscuously.

More American Mail Coming In This Week-End

Two Trans-Pacific Liners Due Here Friday And Sunday

Two more mails from America will arrive in Shanghai this week. The Pacific Mail liner President Lincoln, formerly the Hoosier State, is expected here from San Francisco, Honolulu and Japan ports on Friday, and the Empress of Australia, the newest of the Canadian Pacific liners, comes to Shanghai on her maiden trip Sunday.

Mail from both Europe and America came in yesterday on the P. and O. liner, Devanha, from London by way of Suez, and the Admiral Liner President Jefferson, from Seattle and Japan ports.

Three ships will sail for America this week-end. The first is the Empress of Russia, of the Canadian Pacific, which sails from Woosung for Vancouver on Saturday. The President Grant, formerly the Pine Tree State, of the Admiral Line, will leave for Seattle on Sunday, as will the Nanking of the China Mail for San Francisco by way of Japan ports and Honolulu.

Lack Of Quorum Halts Parliament

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 8.—Three hundred and ten members were present at the meeting of the House of Representatives this afternoon. There was no quorum in the Senate. The Representatives passed a resolution to the effect that the House could not legally deal with President Li Yuan-hung's resignation and decided to send it back.

Dr. C. T. Wang Protests To Japanese Over Kidnapping Of Chinese Millionaire

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 8.—At yesterday's meeting of the Sino-Japanese Commission, Dr. C. T. Wang protested against the kidnapping of Mr. Liu, a Chinese millionaire of Tsingtao, by bandits in the center of the Tsingtao district. The Japanese Commissioners agreed to investigate the case and gave assurance that those guilty will be severely punished.

During lengthy discussions the Japanese inquired about the definition "members and shareholders" of companies to be formed, and suggested that the Commission might lay down rules of procedure for the organisation of such companies since Article 2 of the Treaty empowers the Commission "to settle other matters likewise requiring adjustment." The Chinese delegates did not agree to the suggestion. Members, according to the Chinese interpretation, means employes of companies from directors and managers to office-boys and shareholders are those who hold shares according to Chinese law. While the Treaty is silent as regards the percentage of shares which foreigners, not merely Japanese, can hold in the proposed companies it was understood at Washington that they should not exceed 50 percent.

The Chinese contended that the Commission could not possibly assume the powers of the Tsingtao Municipal Government and therefore incompetent to lay down rules of procedure governing the organisation of companies. Moreover, the Treaty is most clear on this point. First, Japan will transfer public enterprises to the Chinese Government and China will then transfer them to the Tsingtao Municipal Government which will cause the companies to be formed after which the Japanese, like other foreigners, may invest in the shares of these companies but until the companies are formed and the shares taken up, the companies themselves will not know who will be their members or employes. Therefore, the Chinese contended, it will be for the companies to provide their own internal organisation subject to Municipal regulations and supervision.

Cohen, Owner Of Ricshas, Shifts Responsibility

addition to slight costs for license plates. He said it cost approximately Tls. 120 to turn out a new ricsha and that from 60 to 70 new ricshas were produced each month from his company's plant.

Other fixed charges he spoke of included Tls. 6,000 a month for 600 pairs of tires costing, he said, Tls. 10 per pair; costs for teak and imported hard wood and for imported steel parts used in the manufacture of ricshas and costs for the maintenance of a laundry of sizable dimensions, which is a part of the plant, and for the general mechanical plant, including machine shop, blacksmith shop and the general factory.

A trip through the Star company's plant makes it apparent that the company has found it the best economy to use the highest grade materials in the manufacture of the ordinary public ricsha. The head of the company explained that the public ricshas suffered such rough usage from day to day that only the highest grade of steel for axles, wheels and springs and only the best hard woods for bodies can survive the treatment public ricshas receive.

TALKS ABOUT REPAIRS

Mr. Cohen denied emphatically the charge of the workers that repair costs which those renting the ricshas must bear are exorbitant and he said in this connection that he desired to explain the company's position.

He said that if the ricsha men were permitted to have their repairs made in Chinese shops materials of inadequate strength and quality would be used and the work would be far below the standard that uses of the public ricsha call for.

Therefore, he said, his company was obliged to insist that all repairs must be done in the company's own plant and he asserted that far from being a profitable department of the business, the work of making repairs and of supplying damaged parts represented a considerable portion of overhead expense. He declared that the general cost for repairs must be imposed upon those renting the ricsha, saying if this is not done then not even reasonable care will be taken of the vehicle when it is in use. The requirement, he added, was the single factor that compelled the coolie to take care of his ricsha.

He denied utterly that charges his company made for repairs were exorbitant and declared that in all cases these charges were much below the actual cost to the company. As examples, he said the charge for a broken shaft to the worker was forty cents while it cost the company $1.50 to put a new shaft in a ricsha and the charge made for a new rain apron to meet recent municipal requirements, an item costing the company $8.50, was $5. He mentioned other parts of the ricsha, in each case declaring that the charge for supplying them was from forty to fifty percent under actual cost.

Concerning the general system of conducting the business he explained that the company's ricshas were rented at the rate of 75 cents a day small money to persons held responsible for them who were privileged to employ the ricshas in any way they saw fit as the company had nothing to do with the actual worker who obtained has ricsha from the various distributing depots.

DELAY IN TARIFF REVISION COSTS CHINA HEAVILY

Ten Million Monthly In Revenue Lost, Is Estimate

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, August 5.—Chinese financiers are trying their best not to get impatient as the work of the Tariff Revision Commission drags out at Shanghai. Every month's delay is estimated to mean a loss to the Chinese Government of approximately $10,000,000. However, no criticism is being made against the work of that body which is going ahead as fast as possible.

Because of the heat, the members have declared a two weeks' vacation and it is expected that their work will be all finished by the first of October.

"There's another $4 gone to pot," or words to that effect.

The two weeks outing of the members will cost China some $5,000,000, but the delegates, having settled the pickle, marmalade and jam tariff—rather poor stuff for hot weather, will now be able to get the taste out of their mouths so that when they return, fresh and full of vigor, marinierte herring, salt cod fish and vinegar tariffs will slide through with a speed equalling that which was made by the bacon, ham and lard tariff which greased its own skids, so to speak.

Interest is also high in the ratification of the Washington Treaty by the one remaining power, that is, France. As soon as she signs, a commission will meet, probably in Peking, to arrange for the 2½ percent Customs Surtax which China is allowed by the terms of that Treaty.

There again China is losing some $2,000,000 a month each month that is lost before the surtax is imposed. Since there are many uses that could be found for this combined twelve million, there is little wonder for the anxiety.

15,000 To Be Cured Of Opium If This Plan Bears Fruit

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 7.—Governor Yen's touring party found Taikou the worst hsien as regards morphine but after three days rigorous speeches and warnings, an anti-opium association was founded there with 1,500 members who each undertook to reform ten addicts or traffikers.

Returning to Taiyuanfu on August 2 Governor Yen called a special meeting of the departmental chiefs and received the special reports of the members of the party. On August 3 a party comprising Governor Yen and 400 investigators in a special train reached Pingtinghsien where they carried out investigations of the self-government plan. Up to the present seven meetings have been held in Pingtinghsien and 14 more have been arranged. The Governor intends to go on to Shaoyanghsien today.

All the hsiens up to the present visited have adopted local self-government. The tours have already resulted in important alterations and improvement of original plans.

Would-Be Suicide Is Again Arrested

George B. Clayton who fired a bullet entirely through his body several weeks ago, staging an attempt to kill himself while riding in an automobile on Nanking Road about daybreak, is to face the charge of carrying arms next Saturday in court of U. S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton, having been re-arrested after jumping a bond he gave.

Clayton was arrested after he was discharged from the Shanghai General Hospital two weeks after his attempt at suicide and was released on a bond of $100 which he was permitted to sign himself. He failed to appear for hearing when his case was called last Saturday and a bench warrant was issued for him. He was again arrested early yesterday morning by Deputy Marshal Van Buskirk on Broadway, and is being held in the American prison.

Weddings

GLOVER-GLASGOW

A pretty marriage ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Bowen, 113 Dixwell Road, Monday night, when Miss Esther Glasgow became the bride of Mr. Raymond T. Glover of the Asia Banking Corporation. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ralph A. Ward, of New York City.

In the absence of the bride's parents, who reside in Long Beach, Cal., the bride was given away by Mrs. Bowen. She was also attended by Miss Allene Thornburgh, who acted as bride's maid. Mr. William N. Flint was best man.

The bride wore white silk trimmed with silver and carried a shower bouquet. The ceremony was of an informal character and attended only by intimate friends, about 75 in all.

Mr. Glover's home is in Brooklyn, N. Y. He has been with the Asia Banking Corporation about two years, prior to which he was with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company at their Paris branch. The wedding took place earlier than had been planned because of Mr. Glover's being transferred to the Hankow branch of the Asia Banking Corporation.

An informal reception was held, after which the bridal couple left for Hankow, where they will reside. Friends of the groom tendered him a bachelor dinner at the American Club last Saturday night.

YANG-JUI

The McTyeire School at Edinburgh Road was the scene of a very beautiful wedding yesterday afternoon when Miss Jui Wai Tsung, for several years a member of the faculty, was married to Mr. Y. C. Yang, secretary of the National Commission for Study of Financial Problems and a member of Dr. Wellington Koo's Staff at the Washington and London Legations. The hall was most attractively decorated in red and green. The bride was dressed in a charming suit of white Chinese embroidered silk of the latest pattern while the bridegroom wore a full dress with decorations which was awarded to him by the Peking Government for his services at the First Assembly of the League of Nations and the Washington Conference.

Japanese Legation Answers Critics Of Engine Purchases

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 7.—The Japanese Legation has issued a communication remarking on the criticism apparently aroused in certain quarters because of the Shantung Railway Administration which recently ordered four locomotives from Japanese companies. It points out that the Railway Administration like other individuals, should be free to order equipment where it chooses and says that it is inconceivable that the principal of the open door was ever intended to restrict the freedom of individual or parties in business transactions and mentions that locomotives had previously been ordered from American firms without inviting for public tenders. The communication adds that the charge that a secret agreement granting Japanese subjects the exclusive privilege of supplying material and equipment to the Shantung Railway was arrived at during one of the earlier meetings of the Sino-Japanese Shantung Commission was absolutely groundless.

Dr. Wang Host To Cabinet Members

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Dr. Wang Chung-hui attended the Ministry of Education this morning and afterwards the meeting of Ministers at the Cabinet Office.

Parliament will meet this afternoon.

Frawley Engagement To Open November 16

In a cablegram received yesterday from Mr. T. Daniel Frawley by Mr. B. Goldenberg, Manager of the Ramos Amusement Company controlling the Victoria and Olympic theaters, definite arrangements are concluded for a theatrical engagement to be played here by a new company headed by Mr. Frawley. This is to open November 16 at the Olympic theater and while the period of the engagement has not definitely been fixed, it will probably be for two or three weeks.

In letters that have been received from Mr. Frawley, who is now in New York, he says the new company he has been organising in his belief is the best he ever has headed and in the course of the coming engagement all of the biggest New York and London stage successes are to be presented. It is probable that the company will play an engagement at Honolulu on the way to the Far East.

U. S. Post Office Stops Forwarding Mail From Inland

Of particular interest to residents of centers in the interior of China is a new regulation of the Chinese postal administration which forbids sending of letters bearing foreign stamps from inland points to treaty ports for the purpose of having them forwarded by other means than through the Chinese Postal Service.

Announcement was made yesterday by Col. Clyde S. Ford, American Postal Agent here that the new ruling will be respected in the American Post Office and that hereafter mail bearing American stamps and addressed to points in the United States that is received under a separate cover from the Chinese Postal Service will not be forwarded from the American Post Office, but will be returned to sender. The text of the new ruling is as follows:

"It is forbidden to send packets or letters or single letters bearing foreign stamps from inland places to treaty ports for the purpose of having these letters further transmitted by other means than through the Chinese Postal Service, and also to forward international letters which are not fully prepaid at Union rate in packets from treaty ports to inland places. Such packets or letters when ever detected in transmission through the Post Office will not be forwarded to destination, but will be returned to the sender."

HAMILTON TO BE SPEAKER AT ROTARY TIFFIN

Made Trip To Lhassa With Younghusband Expedition

Major Jack Hamilton, one of the few foreigners to enter the city of Lhassa, hero of two wars and many campaigns, world traveller and soldier of fortune, will speak before the Shanghai Rotary Club at the regular meeting of the organisation tomorrow at the Union Club. Major Hamilton will tell of the trip he made with Younghusband to Thibet.

Holding a rank of captain in the British Army and Major in the American Army, Hamilton has had an eventful career, serving fourteen years in the British Army prior to the Great War. He was in three armies in the World War, enlisting with the French in August of 1914, getting a transfer to the British staff when the British expeditionary forces arrived in France, and finally getting into the American army after having been invalided.

He was with the Younghusband expedition to Thibet in 1904 and lectured all over the world, describing the experiences of the brave group that penetrated clear to the Forbidden City of Lhassa. He was then in army service in India.

In 1910 he resigned from the Army, and went into business in Detroit, four years later going to France on a vacation trip. He enlisted, later going to the British and taking part in the battles of the Mons, the First Marne and Ypres, where he was hit by a shell and was blind for six months. Regarded as physically unfit, he was discharged from the service and went to the United States, returning to Detroit.

He underwent treatment in America and when Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was raising a division of volunteers for service in the American Army, Hamilton was made a colonel. The division was refused and Hamilton went to the First Officers Training Camp at Fort Sheridan, Illinois, where he helped train the first 40,000 men that went with Pershing.

Major Hamilton was one of the speakers at the Foreign Trade Convention in San Francisco which was attended by many Shanghai business men. He represented Seattle at the convention.

He has had many thrilling experiences and his wife, Mrs. Collete Hamilton played a leading role in a romance of the war that is out of the ordinary. Mrs. Hamilton was rescued by Major Hamilton in September of 1914 after the battle of the Marne, when as Mademoiselle Collete Dureeaux, she was a pupil at a French Convent.

Major Hamilton arrived in Shanghai on the Empress of Canada and has joined the Chinese-American Publishing Company, taking charge of their leather goods department.

Senority Issue Halts Settlement Of U. S. Rail Strike

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, August 7.—President Harding has again summoned the striking shopmen to return to work and requested the railways to assign them employment, asking all the parties to the dispute to submit the seniority question to the Labor Board.

President Harding today telegraphed to the men's leader declaring that, inasmuch that the strikers had practically agreed to the terms of his previous proposal and the railway executives had accepted two of the bases, the seniority question remained the only bar, adding that, mindful of the pledges of the executives and the strikers to recognise the validity of all the decisions of the railway board, he was now making another appeal.

Mr. Harding sent a similar telegram to the Association of Railway Executives.

Court Gives Advice On Collecting Chits

C. Riviera, owner of a restaurant in Yuhang Road, was given a bit of advice about attempting to collect chits on street corners, and F. LeRoy, a mechanic and "Nick" Boyle, professional pugilist, were dismissed when the latter two were arraigned in the British Police Court yesterday before Magistrate G. W. King on a charge of assault preferred by Riviera. The latter admitted that he had called Le Roy a liar when he refused to pay certain chits which Riviera held. A three-cornered argument started. LeRoy, the restaurant keeper said, grabbed him by the shirt, and later Boyle hit him five or six times. Boyle, who says he has had 64 fights and has never before been involved in a street encounter, admitted hitting Riviera because the latter had used filthy names.

Paying Debts in Olde Virginia

In those early days, the English colonists used Virginia tobacco as currency. It was their most valuable crop.

Today, of course, Virginia tobacco is no longer a medium of exchange; but it is the world's best cigarette tobacco—mellow and sweet and fragrant, without a trace of harshness or bite.

Old Mill cigarettes are made of the choicest grades of this famous golden tobacco and nothing else. That's why they taste so good.

TOUSSAINT AND CARNAVARRO, DOUBLES CHAMPIONS, BEAT LOCK-WEI AND OLLERDESSEN

Better Judgement In Typhoon Decides Good Match, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2, 6-2; Pair Go To Semi-Finals With Sheldon And Wade, Parbury And George, Roberts And Dawson

Toussaint and Carnavarro, doubles champions of Shanghai since 1920, won to the semi final for the 1922 honor yesterday on the Recs' courts, over Ollerdessen and Lock-wei 6-4, 6-8, 6-2, 6-2. The match was the best of the third round in which eight pairs participated yesterday. Ollerdessen and Lock-wei played in confident fashion until the third set, when misjudged balls dropped into the net or driven outside by the high wind gave the match to the title holders.

Sheldon and Wade's win over Gulick and Barrett at the Country Club, 7-5, 6-1, 6-1, was perhaps the next important match of the day. Gulick and Barrett had been rated by many to win to the semi finals. Exceptional play by the two winners decided the match in short order. Roberts and Dawson took their match at the French Club over da Silva and Leitao, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5, and Parbury and George won over Sturton and Brown at the Country Club 6-0, 6-4, 6-1.

THE CHAMPIONS' MATCH

In spite of the typhoon which even rendered the use of screens impossible and left the court open to a sharp wind the match between the champions and Ollerdessen and Lock-wei was bristling with brilliant tennis, also with unusually careful play. Carnavarro and Toussaint it might be said won because they adopted themselves the sooner to the erratic atmospheric obstacles. They made fewer faults; they played the steadier, more careful game. Short returns and wild outs by the opposition practically won the match.

Ollerdessen, recovered somewhat from an illness, played a game 100 percent better than in his second round against Grant and Caulton. He showed sensational flashes at times, especially in the fore court game, but on the slower long court play or in attempts to kill slow lobs he often failed. Lock-wei was steady and clever throughout. His play had much to do with the scoring of points for his side.

Toussaint and Carnavarro played as usual. The former found the wind bothering his service and several times he double faulted. He retrieved his play however on heady all-round work, and with several sharp placements. Carnarro played at the net through many long rallies and came off against Ollerdessen's best with honors divided evenly at least. He also covered much back court territory, and a fine eye and judgment in the varying winds.

The point score follows:

FIRST SET

| | | | | | | | | | | gas. | pts. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| T. & C. | 2 | 4 | 4 | 4 | 1 | 4 | 2 | 4 | 4 | 4—6 | 33 |

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

The Sporting Editor,
THE CHINA PRESS:

Is it not a fact that several of our best local tennis players violate the foot-fault rule, in particular the swinging of the foot over the base line into the court before the service ball is hit? And would it not be well to publish the rule, in the hope that attention may be called to this fault and such violation of the rules corrected?

Thanking you,
"Player."

Shanghai, Aug. 8, 1922.

Some local players do violate the foot fault rule in every possible manner. I am glad to quote Spalding's rule on the foot fault, with explanations and interpretations written by Edwin C. Conlin, member of the Rules Committee, 1919-1921.

The rule follows:

"Before commencing to serve the server shall stand with BOTH feet at rest BEHIND the base line and within the limits of the center mark and side line. From the time of taking such stand and until the racket strikes the ball, BOTH feet shall remain continuously on the ground."

The interpretation of the rule is:

"Some portion of at least one foot must be kept continuously on the ground from the time the server takes his position preparatory to serving until the ball is struck. It is not a fault if the position of the foot be changed by sliding or twisting unless in so doing it shall touch or overlap the line. There is no restriction on what may be done with the other foot except that no part of it shall cross or reach a position directly above the base line until after the racket has struck the ball. Foot means all that portion of the leg below the ankle. This new rule differs from the old foot fault rule in that if the foot is slid in the act of serving it is not a foot fault."

Spalding's guide further illustrates, with many photographs, common foot faults. The foot just touching the line is shown as a fault; the swing of the foot over the line or into the court before striking the ball is another; stepping into the court before serving, stepping onto the base line, or serving from a jumping position when both feet are off the ground is another.....Ed.

TWO FOREIGNERS HELD FOR RAID IN FOOCHOW ROAD

Alleged To Have Impersonated Officers And Stolen Opium And Money

Failure to pay a motor car chit led to the arraignment yesterday morning in the British Police Court of Harold Kay, who represented himself as a river policeman, and F. W. Davis, who resides in a Chinese house back of the North Szechuen Road police station, on charges of impersonating police officers, and stealing $260, clothing, and 30 ounces of opium from a house at No. 559 Foochow Road Monday night.

The arrest of Kay was brought about when a chauffeur employed by a Chinese garage recognised him as a man who earlier had been in a party of Chinese and foreigners, which left his car in Canton Road without paying for it. Kay, according to the police, voluntarily made a statement involving Davis, an other foreigner named Guttler and several Chinese in the raid on the Foochow Road house which had taken place earlier in the evening.

Inspector Kerrigan, appearing on behalf of the police told of the complaint made by the chauffeur to the police and the subsequent arrest of Kay. It appeared that about 7:45 o'clock in the evening, a motor car was ordered from the Central Garage by Guttler. The car proceeded to Quinsan Gardens, where Davis was picked up, and then to Hongkew Park where Kay joined the party. Later, several Chinese were picked up at Woosung and Quinsan Roads, and at a lodging house in the Louza district. Then all proceeded to the house on Foochow Road, where the car was stopped.

Guttler and one of the Chinese, it is alleged, were armed, and all, on entering, represented themselves as police officers, searched the house and made off with the loot. This they took to a house on Avenue Road, and then went to a lodging house on Kiukiang Road.

Evidence of arrest was given by a Chinese police constable, and Sergeant Hotchkiss told of the voluntary statement made by Kay. The hearing was adjourned until Friday morning to give the police an opportunity to search for the stolen property.

Good Russ Harvest Relieves Famine

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 7.—It is surmised that the partial discontinuance of foreign relief work in Russia from September 1, announced from Moscow, is due to the improved situation in consequence of the good harvest prospects. Moscow reports state that, though conditions are still bad in many areas, the price of cereals is falling in others, especially in Ukrainia, and that the Soviet Foreign Trade Department has instructed its agents abroad to cease to purchase flour and sugar.

American Cotton Planter Optimistic

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 7.—Mr. Page of the Arkansas Cottongrowers' Association, interviewed on his arrival here today from America, spoke optimistically with regard to the new cotton crop. He said that the splendid weather during the past weeks compensated the earlier heavy rains which had threatened to make the crop very late. The quality of the crop would be quite normal while the prospects as regards volume were better than last year.

Baseball Stars For 10-Game Series

Meiji game will also start at 5 o'clock.

The Meiji University team is one of the fastest aggregation of ball players in Japan. The Meji nine is expected to arrive in Shanghai today and will go into practice immediately. Fort Mills arrives Friday.

Nationals Break Up Irish Rebel Plot

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 7.—Dublin has apparently escaped further trying experiences by the frustration of a carefully planned rebel coup to isolate the capital.

A Government communique shows that the idea was to destroy the bridges, roads and railways. A number of irregulars, bent on this purpose travelled from Cork to Dublin via Liverpool but the plot was discovered in time and 160 persons were arrested near the various bridges before any damage was done, together with quantities of munitions, including several stolen motor cars. No national casualties are reported.

PHILIPPINES MAY SHIP COAL TO U.S. TO BREAK STRIKE

(China Press Service)

Manila, Aug. 8.—Philippine coal will be exported to the United States to help overcome the national shortage there due to the coal miners' strike, if the plans of Philippine mine operators, developed at a conference here yesterday and embodied in a cablegram to Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover at Washington, materialise.

At the conference George L. Logan, of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, was authorised to cable Mr. Hoover that a considerable quantity of Philippine coal is available for immediate shipment and that as much as 20,000 tons monthly could be sent if proper organisation is effected, shipping board vessels made available for transporting the coal, and funds advanced for bettering mining facilities.

The cable perhaps will be followed by a supplementary message when more of the Philippine mines are heard from. M. M. Tackey, newly in control of the Danao mines on Cebu, awaits a report of how much coal can be produced immediately and how much the output of the Danao mines can be increased within a short time. There are veins that produce coal suitable for export and others in which the coal is best suited for domestic consumption.

C. Russell, manager of the National Coal company, operating mines on the public domain at Malangas, Zamboanga, said that he can load out 10,000 tons of semi-anthracite coal from Malangas immediately and if $250,000 is given for bettering the facilities he can furnish 10,000 tons of this coal monthly.

It is anthracite coal particularly of which there is a pressing shortage in American industries at this time, Mr. Logan said. This coal can also be mixed with bituminous coal and used in steamships and factories as steaming coal.

Director Paez, chairman of the board of directors of the National Coal company, however, is said to feel pessimistic as to the Philippines' ability to help relieve the shortage.

According to Paez, the Philippines can hardly export coal to the United States at present, first, because of the distance and second, because of insufficient production. The present rate of production of the National Coal company is said to be only 3,000 tons a month due to insufficient funds with which to develop the industry. Even with favorable conditions this production cannot be increased to more than the private firms, it is declared.

The National coal company despite the limited facilities at its command still produces more coal than the private firms, it is declared.

Co-operation Of Schools Is Urged

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Aug. 7.—At its last session the Commission on Intellectual Co-operation discussed means to encourage closer relations between the various seats of learning.

It recognised the necessity for protecting the product of intellectual and scientific discovery, but ultimately it judged unrealisable the co-operation of savants with a view to the publication of chemical discoveries concerning war.

Italian Disorders Grave, London Told

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 7.—How grave have been the disorders in Italy is revealed in the detailed stories which show that hundreds of Labor Exchanges and Communist Clubs have been destroyed by the Fascisti, while some 50 persons have been killed, hundreds injured and thousands arrested. Practically all the Socialist municipal administrations have resigned. Many workers' organisations have deserted the Socialist Confederation and joined the Fascisti. The reports agree in representing that the result of the struggle has been a severe defeat of the Socialists. It is stated that the Fascisti were never before in so strong a position.

That the situation is still serious is shown by Reuter's correspondent at Rome, who says that five provinces have been placed under the control of the Military authorities until complete order is restored.

D'Annunzio has issued an appeal for peace.

FAMOUS STORY OF THE NORTH

"THE GIRL FROM OUTSIDE"

A REGINALD BAKEk PRODUCTION

Rex Beach has gone back to the scene of his first and greatest success in "The Girl From Outside" a film version of his story, "The Wag Lady." The picture was directed by Reginald Barker and the leading actors are Clara Horton and Cullen Landis. It is cleverly put together, the smiles and tears being almost evenly divided. The characters are all in the hands of competent players. Rex Beach knows Alaska, and every scene is reproduced with convincing thoroughness.

The girl who gives the story its name lands in Alaska an orphan, her father dying on the trip from Seattle. She is befriended by a band of crooks, five in number, and her influence over them reforms the entire gang. The manager of a trading company becomes interested in her and finds that the owner of the leading bar-room in the town wants to get the girl into his place. He has already trapped the manager in a mine scheme, but The Curly Kid, himself in love with the girl, gives his life in a successful effort to clear the path to happiness for June and his rival.

Oh! how she can dance! You never saw her equal!

Dry Sweden Forecast; Vote On August 27

Stockholm, Sweden, July 15.—On August 27 next the Swedish people will vote on the question—Do you want prohibition of the making, selling and possessing of intoxicating liquors? Intoxicating liquors is understood to mean all beverages containing more than 2.25 percent weight of alcohol.

It will be seen that the proposition is somewhat different from that adopted in American dry legislation. First, the allowed beverages may contain more alcohol; if the measure given above is counted, as is usual, by volume and not by weight, it will be about 2 4-5 percent alcohol. Second, the possession of intoxicating drinks would be prohibited. The proposed alcohol limit would permit the brewing of light beers, but since the production of beer has for years been very strictly controlled in Sweden, the making of stronger malt liquors being out of the question, it is forecast that allowance of lighter malt drinks would not cause drinking to excess. Experience in Iceland during seven years of a similar kind of prohibition seems to indicate that the assumption is right.

If carried by the people's vote in August, the form of dry legislation will then be prepared by the legal committee of the Swedish Parliament and acted upon, but the proposition will not be considered as carried unless 60 percent of all votes cast are in favor of it.

Since January 29, 1921, women have had equal suffrage with men. The population of Sweden is at present very nearly 6,000,000. Of these the following have the right to vote, as being over 23 years of age:

|---|---|
| Women | 1,692,275 |
| Men | 1,536,446 |
| Total | 3,228,721 |

The drys are confident that 80 percent of the people will vote in favor of prohibition.

When it is remembered that the yearly consumption of liquors in Sweden was about 46 liters per head, or about 9 gallons, while it is at present about five liters (less than 1 1-3 gallons); that no strong beers are consumed, and finally that there is good ground for the hope that total prohibition of all strong drink may be adopted, it will be seen that a brilliant work for temperance has been done.

The first signs of the prohibition movement in Sweden may be traced back 100 years. Individual abstinence was, of course, the first step taken. The first temperance society in Sweden was organised in 1819 at Vaxio by Peter Wieselgren, then a student. Later he became a clergyman and a dean in the State Church of Sweden. The father of Swedish temperance and prohibition work, Dean Wieselgren for more than 50 years devoted his energy and talents to the fight against drink. The most outstanding result of his work was the abolition of home distilling in 1856, which was the means of cutting out most of the consumption of strong drinks. While the law against home-distilling prohibited private individuals from making distilled liquor, the government authorised the making of spirits in special distilleries, and strict regulations were set for the selling of distilled drinks by the so-called Gothenburg system.

From 1879 a new era in temperance work opened and the Independent Order of Good Templars was introduced into Sweden. This organisation achieved a remarkable success and soon became the largest temperance organisation in the country. About 1880 several other organisations were established, all having total prohibition as their ultimate aim although they, at the same time, worked very steadily for individual temperance. The climax of that temperance work was seen in 1909-1910, when a public vote was taken in more than half of Sweden on total and permanent prohibition. The referendum was not official, but it was carried on by the temperance organisations. The aim was to have every person over 18 years of age, men and women, express an opinion.

The vote could not be taken throughout the country. In some districts there was a shortage of temperance workers, and the great work was carried on practically without funds. A sum of 15,000 Swedish crowns, or $4,000, was all the temperance people had for the great work of taking that vote. About 56 percent of people over 18 voted, with the following result:

|---|---|
| For prohibition | 1,884,298 |
| Against prohibition | 16,471 |

If Sweden then had been governed in a democratic way, there is no doubt that prohibition would have been realised immediately after that great public demand for a dry regime. But the people had not much influence. The Upper House in Parliament was elected on the basis of wealth, rich people having votes in proportion to their possession, and in the Lower House not even all male citizens had the right to vote. Parliament paid little attention to the wishes of the people, with the result that the so-called Bratt system was established in 1914 by which the distribution of liquor was materially changed from what had for about 60 years been customary under the Gothenburg system.

Under the latter system distilled liquor was sold by the Bolag, or liquor company, authorised by the State, and the rule was followed, that the retailer should make only sufficient profit to bring him in 5 percent per annum on invested money, no restrictions being made in regard to the quantity of liquor that each person could buy. The Bratt system, on the other hand, was planned, as its originator, Dr. Ivan Bratt, advocated, strictly to limit those who should be allowed to buy liquor drunkards and disorderly persons not being allowed to buy any and no person being permitted to exceed a stipulated quantity per month.

This system, normally allowing each "orderly" person four liters of distilled liquor, or roughly one gallon per month, has been practiced in Sweden since 1914. That the Bratt system could not create a sober people was a foregone conclusion with most of the temperance people of Sweden, and now it is clear to the whole nation.

However, a very strong prohibition wave is sweeping over Sweden at present. Besides the efforts of about 300,000 members in the temperance organisations, a far greater army is fighting for a dry Sweden under the banners of the Swedish Anti-Saloon League—an organisation founded in 1920 on the lines of the Anti-Saloon League of America. All denominations in Sweden, including the State Church, are represented in this Christian prohibition movement of Sweden. In the campaign for prohibition now in active operation the older temperance organisations and the young Swedish Anti-Saloon League have combined and are co-operating in the best possible manner.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

August 8, 1922

Saturday was the last day on which the London Silver market was open and Spot Bar Silver was quoted at 35⅛d and forward at 35d. The market in New York was open yesterday and the price was unchanged from that ruling the two preceding days. The London New York cross rate however, has improved to 446⅛.

At the opening this morning our Official Rates here were unchanged from Saturday; however, as the market was easy throughout the morning the Sterling rate was subsequently dropped to 3-4½, the Gold Dollar to 75¼, the Yen rate raised to 64 and the other rates changed accordingly.

In the early part of the morning a fair amount of business in Sterling was done at 3-5 for practically all deliveries until the end of the year, and in Gold Dollars at 76⅝.

Some business in Yen was done at 62¾.

The market then steadied up somewhat and a small amount of business in Sterling was done at 3-5⅛ and Gold Dollars at 76½. However, just before Tiffin interval the market again eased off although Banks were then offering to sell Sterling at 3-5 and Gold Dollars at 76¼.

The market opened after the Tiffin interval on the weak side with buyers of Sterling at 3s. 4⅞d. and of Gold Dollars at 76. However, some banks were good sellers at these rates and the market steadied up slightly, 3s. 4½d. and 76¼ respectively being done.

However, at the close rates eased off again slightly with good buyers at these rates and sellers at 3s. 4⅞d. and 76 only.

The London silver market was reported as quiet on Saturday and the New York market yesterday as steady with more buyers than sellers.

Can Democracy Retreat?

ALEXIS de Tocqueville, he tells us in the introduction of the twelfth Paris edition of "Democracy in America," wrote that great work "under the constant preoccupation of one single thought: the approaching, irresistible, universal coming of democracy in the world."

He wrote it in 1833, for publication two years later. Europe after Waterloo had lapsed into iron-bound reaction. Again after the little flurry of 1830 the Metternichs, and the Windischgratzes to whom "mankind begins with Barons," flattered themselves that in the Old World the cause of democracy was dead and in the New World its living example was doomed. De Tocqueville had been in the United States studying prison systems and much besides, and this is what his preface said:

> The gradual development of equality is a providential fact. . . . All events, like all men, have served in its development. Would it be wise to believe that a social movement which has come from so far can be suspended by one generation? Shall we suppose that after destroying feudalism and vanquishing kings, democracy will recoil before the bourgeois and the rich? Will it check its course now that it has become so strong and its adversaries so feeble?

The distinguished author who bade democrats not to lose hope when their cause seemed halted did not live to see France safely republican. He died before the Civil War gave democracy in America a shock more severe than any foreign foe had ever dealt. But he left his clear call to democracy in all future time to go forward with faith in its fated, inevitable course.

Again there is a halt of reaction. Aghast at the shattering of empires and the fall of strong old dynasties, monarchists are uncertain whether to trust rather in the purse or the assassin's aim to restore the irreparable. Diplomats who learn nothing and forget nothing are talking the old language of privileged nations and privileged men. The triumphs of political freedom bought at such sacrifice in the great war are too little considered in the shadow of the wide economic prostration and international stupidity which condition all our lives. Even in America the political product of reaction in Congress is busying itself with aiding "the bourgeois and the rich" by framing tariffs of privilege and relieving from taxation only those best able to bear it. The moral let-down after the war is grievous and puzzling.

But there never is and never can be a return to Normalcy. There always is and always must be progress in the normal manner; and in political and social evolution nothing is normal but constant change under the pressure of natural law. We do not know what forms democracy will assume. We do know, as self-evident, that men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights. We do know that government of the people by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth.

We know that a movement that has "come from so far" will go further. We know that in some form democracy will prevail against new foes that may encompass it, as it has prevailed over kings and emperors. We do know that the way of the world out of discouragement lies through freedom, not repression; through a better understanding of the brotherhood of man; through the kinship of nations and the reawakened chivalry of strong races for the weak or backward. And toward and in that way it is the duty of all men to aspire and to strive.

A New Olympus

(New York Times)

Word comes from Geneva (not Washington) that Dr. George Ellery Hale, Director of the Mount Wilson Observatory, has been elected to membership in the international committee which, under the auspices of the League of Nations, is to study and suggest methods of intellectual co-operation throughout the world. Dr. Hale is an American, but it would appear that he is not to sit as a representative of America, just as Dr. John Bassett Moore, though an American, does not sit in the International Court of Justice at The Hague as a representative of the United States, but as an authority on international law. It may be assumed, however, without conceit, that in the opinion of the rest of the nations the circle of wisdom, as well as that of justice, would not be complete without an American.

There were twelve deities of highest rank in the ancient Olympian circle, under Zeus. Dr. Hale's election increases to twelve the number of members of this new Olympian body. There is Einstein, whose theories are so advanced that even in his own day he postponed their announcement until they could be understood by others. There is Mme. Curie, to whose scientific knowledge Athena's or Minerva's was but as a sputtering candle beside the radium that burns forever and is not consumed. There is Dr. Gilbert Murray, whose translation of the Greek dramatists has supplied some of their best lines. And there is Bergson, whose philosophical lectures have been received in France and America as were the oracular utterances of Apollo at Delphi.

And now ascends to this august group Dr. Hale, who has recently undertaken the direction of that most ambitious and presuming of man's scientific ventures since Prometheus filched the fire that was till then the prerogative of the gods alone and gave it to mortals. It is to be hoped that this modern assailant of the atom and author of "The New Heavens" will not because of his association with the League and his devotion to the good of mortals generally suffer the fate of the ancient Titan. On the contrary, we should send into this international committee of man's highest intellectual wisdom, with governmental as well as popular good wishes, this eminent scholar, whose specialty is the stars, not only as a representative American, but also as a representative of America. And by the same token, and under the same symbol, we should enter the world court of justice as well as this world council of science.

The Size Of Raindrops

Prof. Humphreys of the United States weather bureau, a recognised authority on meteorology, has determined that raindrops cannot be larger than a fifth of an inch in diameter, and that they cannot fall through still air faster than twenty-six feet a second, says the Popular Science Monthly.

These limits are due to the resistance of the air. If a drop becomes larger than a fifth of an inch in diameter the air friction on its surface becomes greater than the force of cohesion that holds the water together, and consequently the drop breaks up into two or more smaller drops. Similarly, when the velocity at which it falls reaches twenty-six feet a second, the friction of the air on its surface, which is tending to keep it from falling, becomes equal to the force of gravity, which is pulling it down, and therefore it cannot attain any increased speed.

Stumbling Through The Chinese Tongue

With many of the universities including Chinese in their foreign language curriculum, it is interesting to note the large number of students sudying it. It is a musical language, changing with the locality of origin. The Chinese vary the meaning of the spoken sounds by means of inflections. In the Mandarin dialect, spoken by the majority of the nation, especially by those resident in the west and north of the Yangstze River, there are four tones.

How these tones vary the meaning of a sound will be seen from the following example: The word Ch'a when spoken in the high level inflection is translated "fork"; when spoken in the low level inflection it is translated "tea"; when spoken in the rising level inflection it is "pants for kiddies"; in the sliding level inflection it means "monastery." It is rather disconcerting to ask the boy to bring you a chair and have him return with a cake of soap. The difference in tone causes this difficulty. Probably the greatest number of misunderstandings that arise in the daily dealings between the Chinese and the resident foreigners have their source in the use of tones in the native language.

"There is a story told of a certain foreigner resident in Peking, who, when planning for the inevitable tea day, called in his new cook and in his best Chinese gave the orders for the afternoon's food," relates H. K. Richardson in telling of his experiences in China with their peculiar language in a report to the Chinese Trade Bureau. "Literally translated, the order was: 'Chao Si, this afternoon have one big party—go catch thirty-six piece lady fingers for eats.'

"Three-thirty o'clock came and the worried host was short both cook and cakes. A few minutes before the guests were to arrive a dazed cook faced the master with the information, 'One big job—only catch twenty-three piece.' Seeing no evidence of the lady fingers, the host asked, 'Where are they?' 'Out at the gate in a cart,' was the amazing reply. Much mystified, the host hurried out to the gate, and there in a loaded Peking cart lay twenty-three ox tongues. The foreigner had only made a slight mistake in pronunciation, having used the word niu (cow) for the word nu (woman). The cook, ignorant of the ways of foreigners, could not understand what the master wanted of cow's fingers. However, being a good Chinese, he would not betray his ignorance by asking a question, so he got the thing that most nearly corresponded to a cow's finger—i. e., cows' tongues."

NOT LACKING IN COURTESY

The Chinese feel it is not courteous to a speaker to ask him to repeat a question or a command, for to do so would be to infer that he had not used the proper language, and this would be a relection on his learning. Due to this trait, it frequently happens that, whether or not a Chinese servant really understands an order, he will look as if he perfectly understood and act accordingly. Many are the misunderstandings that result from this fault or virtue, according as it is looked upon from the standpoint of the foreigner or the Chinese.

"The Chinese themselves have difficulties in understanding each other on account of the tones," says Mr. Richardson. "This is especially true of the words for the numerals four and ten, both of which are si. To make sure that you know the price of some article of purchase is ten cash, instead of four, a system of finger signs was invented for the numerals. When a native merchant tells you that the price is 444 cash, his fingers jump around like the antics of a monkey, while his tongue slides over si beh si si si, which, literally translated, is four hundred four ten four.

"The Chinese are a polite, courteous people. When a Chinese guest or teacher arrives and the novice, trying to be polite, asks him to 'Please get out,' the guest is apt to look surprised until he realises that only the formal 'Please take a seat' was intended. With us in our work was a foreigner who had been born in another part of China, where the tone usage on these two phrases was different from that in our locality. To the consternation and joy of his Chinese associates, he would invariably mix up the tones, with some surprising results, when important guests were being entertained. This incident well illustrates the prime need of a foreigner being thoroughly conversant with the language peculiarities of his own station.

"If the cook should literally carry out the instructions given to him, many and wonderful would be the concoctions served upon the table. This will be evident from some of the instructions given in the following conversations: 'Li Si'—be sure to put plenty of opium (might be smoke or tobacco—whichever came to the mind of the cook first) in the soup. The cook looked surprised, then smiled. 'Yes, will put plenty salt in.' Ien in the high level inflection is opium, tobacco or smoke, while in the low level inflection the meaning is salt. Even more obscure was the answer given to the cook's questions: 'What shall I use for these beans?' 'Oh, boil that can,' said the housewife, giving the wrong inflection to long (use).

"When sending the cook to purchase plums, the housewife, after a few experiences, was prepared to see him return with pears, lichees or chestnuts. He might have bought grain for the cow, a hat, a plow or a soup ladle and not have violated the letter of his instructions for li in its various tones and combinations is one of the most used sounds in the Chinese language. One of its meanings is courtesy, so it is easy to see what a wealth of misunderstandings is bound up in this ambiguous little word. Li is also a very popular name in China, ranking with Smith in importance.

A FULL EXPLANATION

"Even more humorous is the an innocent, overworked little pronoun meaning he, she, it or any indefinite idea that demands expression. When a solicitous foreigner asks about the wife of a Chinese friend the nonchalant answer is 'It's at home.' The greatest use of this much abused word is in descriptive matter. The answer to the question, 'Why was this dish broken?' literally translated would usually be, 'He took he, he set he down on he, he broke he, he took he, he threw he in he.' This together with a jerk of the thumb toward another servant and the waste pile would tell the complete story.

"The absence of conjunctions, plural or prepositions and the habit of making no distinction in the use of the same sound as a noun, adjective or adverb leads the beginner into many a queer situation where only imagination and intuition will help, as note the literal report of the cook on the day's buying, 'Ten piece egg, six piece celery, two piece radish, three piece nail, one all he cost one hundred ten two piece cash.'

"When inquiring about a Chinese friend whose presence has been missed, the answer will most probably be 'He is no more within.' The most natural interpretation of this is to imagine that the friend has moved or is on a trip. Later, the expression is found to be a polite phrase used to let one know that the friend is no more within his earthly house, i. e., he has died. The use of the word for death is confined to animals and never can be politely used when referring to human beings.

"Tell a Chinese friend that he is fat and he will beam all over if you use the word peng but the smile will fade away if fei is used, for this should only be used when talking about hogs.

"It is little wonder that the benevolent intentions of the hard working foreign doctor were so often misrepresented when such misunderstandings as the following are possible in the dispensary. Chinese attendant, examining a sore neck, 'Doctor, how shall I apply the powder?' The Doctor replied, 'Oh, chop his head off.' 'Oh, sprinkle it on.' was what he intended to say. Instead of saying so with the rising inflection, he gave it the lower inflection and spoke the word commonly used to designate executions by the sword, literally chop off the head at the neck.

A DESPERATE REMEDY

"Even more startling to a Chinese filled with superstitions of the haunting of one's steps by the bad spirits was another incident. The attendant asked, 'What kind of medicine shall I give this fellow?' 'Give him oily hell,' was the startling reply. It so happens that yo means both medicine and hell, and oily medicine is the colloquial for foreign castor oil. One preacher talking on the second coming of Christ, calmly announced, 'When he comes again he will want milk.' A mixing of tones and construction turned the meaning from 'He will come again.'

"Much to the amusement of his hearers, nearly every foreigner addresses a mixed audience as 'Men and cowboys'—nu ren is women, while niu ren is cowboy.

"It is, however, left for a clergyman to most dishonor the Cloth, for when a visiting Chinese non-Christian friend asked him, 'Have you your concubines still in Canada?' he very enthusiastically replied 'Yes, I have lots of them there.' A Chinese Christian friend present saved the day by saying, 'Mr. X., our friend misunderstood your question, he thought you asked if he had kept chickens back in Canada. Christian foreigners do not have concubines.' The difficulty arose from the foreigners hearing chi in the high inflection instead of in the sliding inflection as it was spoken. It may have been a case of evil to him who evil thinks." I have sometimes wondered if the rather sinister use of the word 'chicken' in American slang had its origin in this mistake.

"The humorous possibilities offered by these mistakes in tones are not lost sight of by the Chines for an educated speaker, clever in the use of language, can evoke laughter as a result of purposed slips in his use of tones."

The Question Of Taste With Charles Dickens

There has been much controversy about Dickens' taste. A great many cultivated people will scarcely concede that he has any taste at all; a still larger number of fervent admirers point, on the other hand, to a hundred felicitous descriptions and delineations which abound in apt expression and skilful turns and happy images—in which it would be impossible to alter a single word without altering for the worse; and naturally inquire whether such excellences in what is written do not indicate good taste in the writer. The truth is, that Mr. Dickens has what we may call creative taste; that is to say, the habit of faculty, whichever we may choose to call it, which at the critical instant of artistic production offers to the mind the right word, and the right word only. If he is engaged on a good subject for caricature, there will be no defect of taste to preclude the caricature from being excellent. But it is only in moments of imaginative production that he has any taste at all.

His works nowhere indicate that he possesses in any degree the passive taste which decides what is good in the writings of other people, and what is not, and which performs the same critical duty upon a writer's own efforts when the confusing mists of productive imagination have passed away. Nor has Mr. Dickens the gentlemanly instinct which in many minds supplies the place of purely critical discernment, and which, by constant association with those who know what is best, acquires a second-hand perception of that which is best.

He has no tendency to conventionalism for good or for evil: his merits are far removed from the ordinary path of writers, and it was not probably so much effort to him as to other men to step so far out of that path; he scarcely knew how far it was. For the same reason, he cannot tell how faulty his writing will often be thought, for he cannot tell what people will think.—Walter Bagehot.

Save The Family Doctor

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

I am old-fashioned enough to believe in the "family doctor." I don't want to see the family doctor become an extinct species, and I find encouragement in an address of Dr. Sydney R. Miller as president of the American Congress on Internal Medicine. I use the term "family doctor" as interchangeable with "general practitioner."

The entire field of science today is filled with specialists. No one can deny, and probably no one wishes to deny, the enormous value of specialisation as a means of acquiring detailed knowledge and exceptional skill.

The specialist concentrates his attention, as a lens concentrates the rays of the sun, upon a small spot, and the effect is sometimes magical. But the area directly affected is very limited. This, however, is not of consequence if the work be of such a nature that it serves to call wider forces into play. But that is by no means always the case, for often the specialisation runs on in a line so narrow, or penetrates so far below the general level, that it remains more or less subterranean, restricted to the specialist himself and out of touch with surrounding conditions. Specialisation also tends to a restriction of the mental field.

Dr. Miller strikes a note that reaches every person who may have occasion for medical aid when he says that "impersonality in the practise of medicine inevitably foreshadows loss to the public."

What is meant by impersonality here? It means, as I understand it, something more than a machine-like manner of regarding and treating a patient. In impersonal practise a man, or woman, or child not only serves as a mere "subject" in the operator's or experimenter's hands, but, what is more seriously objectionable, the peculiarities of the patient's case may be lost sight of, while he is treated as if every case must be true to type, i.e., must be so closely like every other case of the same disease that the treatment that suits the typical case should suit all cases.

But I have heard a skilful, experienced "general practitioner," who loved his patients as fellow men, and was loved by them, standing, in every family in his circuit, next in esteem to the members themselves, and hardly in the least behind them—I have heard him say that diseases were like faces, each kind made up of the same features, but so varied in their combinations that two cases were as readily distinguishable as were the countenances of the respective patients.

It would seem to the layman that such variations may not always be fully allowed for in the present day practise of referring to impersonal laboratory tests as grounds for diagnosing disease and this impression gets considerable support from Dr. Miller's stricture on (1st) "A tendency prematurely to accept and apply new laboratory tests of promise," (2d) "The indiscriminate utilisation of accepted laboratory procedures that are in reality of value only in a limited domain." (3d) "An improper interpretation of tests of known value through ignorance of their clinical significance." (4th) "An unwise reliance on positive laboratory findings to establish a diagnosis to the exclusion of other data that may, perhaps, be much more important."

It goes without saying that Dr. Miller is making no war on the work of the laboratories or on the specialists; on the contrary, he recognises that the enormous advance of modern medical science is due mostly to them. But he is thinking of the doctors who go to the sick, the lamed and the discouraged, trying to apply the results of science in the immediate service of humanity. It is clinical medicine, which is taught and learned by practical experience and by personal touch in the hospitals and operating rooms and by the bedsides, that most interests the people at large.

The great cases that the doctors themselves talk about at their clubs are almost always what might be described as triumphs of personality, not impersonality, in the practise of medicine. There are stories of that kind that survive generations and are repeated like narratives of fights and battles long after the heroes of them are in their graves.

It is a libel upon a great doctor or a great surgeon to call him a machine. He is as sure, as accurate, as steady as a machine, but there is something in him that no machine can imitate. It is the personal touch, the personal control, and back of it, whatever the appearances, there is a mighty human sympathy governing all.

No cold, rigid, laboratory rules tyrannise over him. Such a man possesses what Dr. Miller calls upon modern medical education to more fully supply, viz., "altruistic and humanitarian motives as the controllers of scientific ardor."

"THE SECRET OF SUCCESS"

Many people are looking for it in vain. In the Aerated Water business, it is easy to find, and may be expressed in one word "QUALITY." If the quality is not right, all your other efforts are wasted. For that reason we buy everything used in the preparation of our Aerated Waters of the best quality only, and we invite an inspection of our books to prove it.

Another point with us, of equal importance, is that everything in connection with the preparation of our Aerated Waters is

"ABOVE BOARD"

We do not want to shut ourselves in within a high wall while working, and we have no secrets. If you care to visit our factory at any time, we shall be pleased to show and explain everything to you. It will surprise you to see the infinite care taken to ensure the purity of our Waters.

Support the officers of the Health Dept. by seeing for yourself as well.

Filipinos To Get Harding's Reply To Quezon's Mission

(China Press Service)

Manila, August 8.—The reply of President Harding to the Filipino independence mission, in which he said that the Filipinos are not yet ready for independence, will be made known to all the 10,000,000 inhabitants of the Philippines, that they may be familiar with the attitude of the President and the American people on the independence question.

Governor General Wood declared yesterday at the executive building that he will cause circulars containing the President's reply to be sent to all the 900 municipalities of the Philippines with instructions to have them posted in public places not only in the municipalities but in the barrios that all may read.

"I have found that the President's reply to the Filipino independence mission is not well known throughout the Philippines as shown by the many requests received in my office for copies of it, and thinking that the mass of the people of the archipelago should know of the President's attitude on independence, I will cause the reply to be sent out in the form of circulars.

"The newspapers have not sufficiently scattered the President's reply and so I am taking this step."

Peking Is Hit By Terrific Heat Wave

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, August 5.—Peking has been sweltering for the last three days. On the second the temperature was 92 with a humidity of 94; on the third it was 93 with a humidity of 97; and yesterday it reached the top with 96 and a humidity of 97.5. These are the figures of the Central Observatory.

According to the weather bureau and other Chinese residents of Peking, there has not been any such heat and moisture together for many years. Even the much talked about heat wave of 1920 was tame compared with the present hot spell.

To be helpful, the electric current in certain sections of the city has been very fickle and when the fan should be doing its hardest to make sleep possible the electricity wheezes and dies out.

Shensi Asks Peking To Annul Arrests

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 5.—It will be remembered that the Shensi Provincial Assembly reported to the Government indignantly last week regarding the alleged illegal arrest of Members of the Kansu Provincial Assembly.

The Lanchow Assembly has now telegraphed to the Government saying that although the Chairman had been released Mr. Ma Cheng-sheng, a Member, was still in custody. These arrests had been effected by the order of Mr. Pan Ling-kou, Civil Governor.

The Assembly asks the Government to order the release of Mr. Ma and the punishment of the Kansu Procurator, who is officially responsible for the arrests.

WU PEI-FU ASKS PARLIAMENT TO GET ON THE JOB

First Duty Is To Draft Constitution, He Telegraphs

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, August 5.—General Wu Pei-fu waxed very lengthy in a telegram addressed to 11 members of Parliament. This message contained 2,685 characters telling that body what Wu thinks to be the essential points for them to bear in mind.

Draft the constitution is the first advice the Loyang General has to offer. He says it will lay a foundation for national unity. He recalls the problems and difficulties which the Government has had to face during the years when there was no constitution. However, he asks the members of Parliament to forget the black past and look ahead to the future which will assuredly be bright if a proper constitution is once established.

His second point was a request that they define the power of the Peking Government, whether it is to be centralised or decentralised. This is absolutely necessary to the stabilising of the Government. He cautions them that the majority of the Chinese people are not in favor of self government and a decentralised power would not be popular in the country. He says that the mass of people are confused with the talk of self-government and the appointments of Civil Governors and the like.

General Wu suggests that the members of Parliament work out a system of unified government which will be strong but not arbitrarily centralised.

Thirdly, the General wants regulations for a system of universal education. This comes with a stable government such as he outlined above. He also mentions the necessity of separating and defining the power of the civil and military authorities in handling the affairs of the Government so that the military clique will not be strong enough to perpetually create trouble.
